Professional Career

Prior to joining Frenkels Forensics in 2010 I spent 17 years working within the Insurance and Legal Services industry (including RSA, Groupama, RBS, HSBC and Browne Jacobson). I was involved in case and operational management with a particular focus on IT systems research and development.

Since joining Frenkels Forensics, I have been involved in a wide variety of cases including fraud, proceeds of crime, criminal defence, personal injury and divorce. I have also played a key role in developing our Data Capture and Analysis services as well as Computer Forensics investigation services.

Areas of Specialisation include

- ✓ Capture, analysis and reporting on large amounts of financial data in complex multi-million pound fraud cases
- ✓ Managing the collection and integration of information and data from multiple sources and formats to assist with creating bespoke databases used in forensic analysis
- ✓ Developing reporting systems within bespoke databases to assist with the production of Forensic Accountancy reports in criminal, fraud and proceeds of crime cases
- ✓ Complex email database analysis and reporting for large organisations investigating internal fraud

Professional Contributions

- ✓ I have provided seminars to solicitors on matters related to computer forensics and data analysis
- ✓ I am the key developer of Frenkels Forensics' online Ogden Tables calculator (www.frenkels.com/ogden)
